Lynchburg, Va., August 15.—Fritchard was invincible this afternoon, and the champions had no trouble taking the first game of the series, 2 to 0.
Sexton was hit harder than the score indicates, for his fielding support was superb, despite the soggy condition of the field. An instance of this was thirteen outfield flies, while six other Tigers went down on high flies to the infield.

infield.

The game, while played in quick time, was decidedly uninteresting, though both teams were hard at work all the time for victory.

Some Baseball Talk

By HALF NELSON.

J. Pluvius won two of the three games scheduled yesterday. There was entirely too much water in and about Petersburg and Danville for anything that looked like baseball Roanoke and Lynchburg, however, clashed and Sexton fell back a peg of two. Also Lynchburg fell back to a place four points in the rear of Richmond—which is some gratification. Pritchard, for Roanoke, held the Lynchburg sluggers, that made Revelle look so sick, down to two measiey hits. Sexton, by the way, allowed cight.

Sexton, by the way, allowed eight.

There are now only twenty-three games left in the Virginia League schedule, and the casual observer would wager that Danville has the bunch for the pennant. Roanoke, however, is in a position to get there first if Danville develops a worse streak of losing than has been with that team, and Roanoke can continue to win. At present it looks as if an interesting race would be run with a whirwind finish. Danville is going to make the effort of a lifetime to strongthen the team, and it will be done if possible. Also Shaughnessy, of the Tigers, is not going to sleep on the job. Two pennants in two seasons would make Shaughnessy right chesty.

Incidentally it looks as if Joe

Incidentally it looks as if Joe Laughlin would get back into the game for Danville behind the bat. Laughlin was one of the mainstays of the team, and when he and Fanwell, the star pitcher, went out of the game at about the same time, Steve Griffin was rather muchly cut up about it. And the team developed the losing streak right there and then.

It does look as if there would be a world's series in Philadelphia this fall. The Philadelphia Americans are run. In 100 points ahead of Bostom and are still going strong. If there is a world's series in the East there will be a general exedus of fans from Richmond to see the play. Dozens have already declared themselves, and by the time enthusiasm over the finish is worked up there will be train.
